COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

Courses listed below are offered by the designated programs on specific schedules to meet the needs of graduate students. All graduate students should work with their advisors and committee to develop a course of study to meet the hour and course requirements of the degree and the offering of specific courses. The listing of classes is intended to be a listing of all courses offered by the programs but not all classes may be offered each semester or year.

Graduate students may take undergraduate-level classes (100 to 499), but those courses will not count toward the requirements for their graduate degree. Only classes of 500 or higher can be counted for completion of your graduate degree. Your program may require specific prerequisite classes that are at the undergraduate level. Students must take those classes, but they do not count towards your total hours for the graduate degree.
