

KENTUCKY STATE UNIVERSITY

CERTIFICATE IN ANIMAL AGRICULTURE

The Certificate In Animal Agriculture is an undergraduate, career-focused educational opportunity that gives a more in-depth preparation for students who are interested in a greater focus in livestock, animals, and agriculture production. This certificate program is designed to assist students in obtaining the training and experience needed for improved employability in animal agriculture and related businesses. The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics indicates an expected growth of 6% in animal science Jobs by 2026.

Required courses:

AFE 211: Introduction to Animal Science
AFE 307: Animal Nutrition
AFE 309: Livestock Reproduction
AFE 415: Livestock Production Practices

Select one class from the list provided:

AFE 215: Agribusiness Management
AFE 426: Agricultural Economics and Marketing
ECO 201: Principles of Economics

Students must receive a "C" in these courses.